2 Funding your Trading ISA with shares

You can fund your Trading ISA using shares already held in your name. These are referred to as Bed and ISA transactions. Your shares must first be sold (as only cash deposits can be made into an ISA), and the proceeds will be reinvested in the same stock within your Trading ISA.

Please note that not all shares are qualifying for ISAs and you should check carefully that investments are eligible for an ISA before placing a trade.

What happens next?

When we receive your completed Bed & ISA form, we will endeavour to carry out your instructions within 48 hours.

You will receive two Contract Notes for each Bed & ISA transaction, one to confirm the initial sale, the second to confirm a repurchase in your Trading ISA.

Note that markets can be volatile, and any difference in a stock's Bid and Offer Price may mean that the price dealt for each transaction differs.

I confirm that I wish you to carry out the Bed & ISA transactions listed above to fund my current tax year ISA.
